

With arguably India's widest collection of beer under one roof, we owe you an explanation of which food goes best with which brew. And that is why we bring you the best of both; popular beer and food from across the globe. Cheers to that!

STOUTS

Dark, smooth, and often featuring roasted coffee and chocolate notes, stouts pair well with barbecue, shellfish, and desserts. Despite their bold appearance, they are not always high in alcohol or bitterness.

HARD CIDER

Light and versatile, cider complements a wide range of foods, including hearty meals, sweets, cheeses, chicken dishes, and seasonal vegetables. Matching flavors and intensity enhances the pairing.

IPAs (INDIA PALE ALES)

Hoppy, bold, and pleasantly bitter, IPAs stand up well to rich and spicy foods like peri-peri fries, tikkas, spring rolls, and chili chicken.

WHEAT BEER

Light and smooth, with subtle grain and yeast flavors, wheat beer pairs wonderfully with butter garlic prawns and beer-battered wings.

LIGHT LAGERS

Crisp, refreshing, and neutral in flavor, light lagers are a great match for savory and spicy foods, including munchies, kebabs, momos, and loaded nachos.

AMBER & DARK LAGERS

With a light caramel sweetness balanced by roasted flavors, these beers shine alongside continental dishes like sourdough toast, fish & chips, pizza, and pasta.
